Collectors' Update June 2002

1792 Silver Center Cent

Our latest offering is a reproduction of one of the most interesting coins created as a pattern for the new coins to be minted at the U S Mint in 1792

The silver center cent was created that has 3/4 cent worth of silver and 1/4 cent worth of copper

Other patterns were struck from the same dies that contain the same percentages of copper and silver alloyed together Alloys using low percentage of precious metal are sometimes referred to as "billon" or "fusible alloy" The low percentage of silver is not enough to distinguish it from pure copper and the silver center cent was determined to be too time consuming to produce, so it was later decided that large cents or what Thomas Jefferson referred to as the "real cent" would be made of pure copper

Thus, the latest reproduction from Gallery Mint Museum, is now available for $20 each. Available with COPY stamp on reverse or obverse it features a reeded edge. Actual size is approximately 88

Complete with real silver center the reproduction pattern cent is now available for $20

1799 Draped Bust Cent

This scarce date large cent has been frequently requested by GMM collectors in the past, and is now available in uncirculated condition for $12 each

Struck in solid copper, like the original coin, these reproductions are of the size and weight as the originals making them ideal "hole fillers" for this tough date coin

Under magnification, you will find this reproduction to be much finer than our previous Draped Bust Cent dated 1796 The main device punch was modified slightly to add two curls to Miss Liberty's hair This difference is also seen on the originals New letter punches were engraved under stereo microscope which are much cleaner and sharper than before Overall this repro has a much more refined look with sharper definition than our previous Draped Bust Cent repros

Struck in pure copper this reproduction is the same size and weight as the original 1799 cent

Latest Acquisitions

The workshops at Gallery Mint are getting rather cluttered up with all the new additions that have been acquired in the past months.

A new rimming machine built by resident machinist, Joe Rust is working quite nicely for smooth rimming planchets bound for collar striking A nice old die reduction machine of unknown origin was purchased through an e-Bay auction thanks to a tip from Hobo Nickel carver Bill Jameson The machine has been restored polished, and painted but is a bit incomplete for now

In addition we have also purchased a Ferracute 110 ton coining press that was originally used at the Denver Mint This machine is a direct descendent from the original steam powered presses used at the Philadelphia Mint as early as 1736 This press was once used as a 'strike your own' tourist attraction at locations in the San Francisco area
